What if...not every wall in every room in every house was gypsum drywall?
What if...not every wall in every room in every house was gypsum drywall?
Maple

What if...you brought the warmth and beauty of wood into your home?
Paint & Stain Grade Birch

What if... you brought the warmth and beauty of wood into your home?
A Unifying Element

Think “outside the box” with panels. You no longer have to confine it to 8’ walls or use it as a “cover up” for tired or damaged surfaces. If you consider panels a style element, the possibilities are endless.

One homeowner faced unique challenges when combining a new addition with an existing structure: 1. Transition old and new functionally, 2. Do something with the kitchen’s “popcorn” ceiling, 3. Incorporate contemporary design elements with traditional styling, 4. Keep the new design within budget.

The solution? The homeowner unified the new addition with the existing space using 4” Beadboard. The choice of 4” lent a retro feel to the spaces while allowing more contemporary elements to be incorporated. The new butler’s pantry features the panels behind cabinetry and as a backsplash. The kitchen itself incorporates beadboard on the walls, backsplash, ceiling, and range hood. Because the homeowner wanted a coffered ceiling in spite of 8’ limitations, the beadboard became the perfect solution using 1” millwork as trim.

Designer hints you can follow:

1. Incorporate panels or planking into the design of islands and built-in furniture.

2. Use panels throughout the home as a unifying element.

3. Consider that pre-finished beadboard is a quick and easy design solution.

4. If you choose unfinished panels, use semi-gloss paint as a durable and excellent surface material.

5. Remember that paneling complements any style, whether modern, traditional, or anything in between.
What if...you added the classic look of beaded panels to your walls, ceilings, backsplashes, islands, and range hoods?

Ready-to-Paint

800.848.8688
AmericanPac.com
What if...you viewed paneling in a new way?
The American Pacific view of paneling includes a 4” Beadboard shown at left, Cottage Board and Batten Panels as a Wainscot and Ivory Elements Designer Panel on top in the center and 4” Beadboard with Moldings and Shelf on right. Visit AmericanPac.com for more information.
What if...your paneled room became a magazine spread?
American Pacific made the 10’ Ceiling Dome, the marble sculpture of Reclining Venus, the Library Paneling, the Beaded Wainscot Panels, the Moldings, the Mantel, the Cornice and the Reproduction paintings. Visit AmericanPac.com for more information.
What if...you covered your walls in leather?
These two pages - Leather
Although it sure looks and feels like it, these walls will not fade like leather and your friends at PETA will approve!
What if...you viewed paneling in a new way?
Evoking shades of sugar white sands, Sandcastle is made to create a feeling of a day on the seashore. Full of subtle, pearlescent colors and lines, this panel will bring the sensation of coastal elegance to the most landlocked of spaces.
Bamboo

What if...your paneled room became a magazine spread?
In addition to the Bamboo Panels, other American Pacific products featured in this room include the Bronze Fire Vanderbilt Mantel and Hearth, the maple Cornice, Baseboards, and Door Casings. Visit AmericanPac.com for more information.
This page - Sahara
The time consuming and beautiful crackling finish was invented in 18th century France to evoke the look of imported Chinese Porcelains. Sahara captures this ageless feel wonderfully. Also featured in the lower photo is our Louis XV marble mantel, available from American Pacific.

Next page - Black Forest
Available as a Library Panel, or 2” Bead, the rich color and subtle grain of Black Forest lend an intimate, contemporary feel to any room.
What if...you viewed paneling in a new way?
What if...your paneled cabin looked this good?

Western Red Cedar
Americans love to relax. Whether a second home, vacation getaway, or summer rental - the only requirement is peace and quiet, along with fun activities, of course.

A builder with a cabin on a creek in Tennessee faced quite a few challenges when renovating his family’s getaway. Tiny yet open to the outdoors, the cabin needed practical design with an infusion of rustic charm. The one element in the cabin that would have to remain: the rough-hewn cedar beams.

His choice? Western Red Cedar panels from American Pacific’s Rustic Collection. The panel, designed with a horizontal pattern, expands the interior space and opens up the ceiling to its rafters. Combining cedar panels with rough-cut cedar on the beams and window and door casings lends the authenticity he had hoped for within his budget constraints. The simple installation made this weekend project a reality.

It works. Choosing materials that fit the overall design of your home lends continuity. Using them in innovative ways brings out your personal sense of style.

Designer hints you can follow:

1. Step back from your project and assess the mood you are trying to create in your room.
2. Choose a panel consistent with that atmosphere. Traditional cherry might be gorgeous in a formal living room, but a rustic panel might just give you the warmth and charm that you need in a more casual setting.
3. Mix elements. Using natural woods as trims and finishes lends authenticity to any room.
4. Fit the panel to your lifestyle. Warm? Cozy? The choice is yours.
What if...you loved the way you live?
What if... you could see the warmth and beauty of wood?
What if...you could see the warmth and beauty of wood in any architectural style?
Natural Maple

What if... you covered the walls and ceilings of your home in solid wood planking?
What if...you covered the walls and ceilings of your home in solid wood planking?

American Walnut, American Walnut Cherry, Natural Maple, Dark Oak, Mahogany, Cherry, Light Oak
In addition to the Library Panels and matching Moldings, American Pacific also manufactures the English Adams Period Marble Mantel, the bas relief overmantel sculpture, and reproduction paintings.
What if... your paneled room became a magazine spread?

800.848.8688
AmericanPac.com
Mahogany Stiles and Rails frame multiple species to the left and Mahogany to the right in our Modern Panel system. When your walls look this good, any decoration is superfluous.
What if... your paneled room reflected your personal style?